[Northrup, Edwin Fitch] 1866–

Zero to eighty; being my lifetime doings, reflections, and inventions, also my journey around the moon [by] Akkad Pseudoman. Princeton, N. J., Scientific publishing company, 1937.

viii p., 4 l., 280, [3] p. col. front., illus., plates, port., diagrs. 24cm.

"The autobiography of a wholly fictitious individual who is born in the year 1920, and who reviews in his eightieth year his life's career and accomplishments. The major achievement of the principal character of the story, Akkad Pseudoman (pretended man), is the realization of a youthful dream that it is possible to create a means for escaping the earth's gravity, circling the moon, and returning alive with records to the earth."—Pref.

Dickerson, Oliver Morton, 1875– comp.

Boston under military rule ⟨1768–1769⟩ as revealed in a Journal of the times, compiled by Oliver Morton Dickerson, PH. D. Boston, Chapman & Grimes [c1936] xiii, 137 p. 27cm.

"This edition of Boston under military rule consists of 1022 copies printed from type that has been distributed."

A daily journal of happenings for which copy was prepared in Boston and supplied to newspapers there and in New York and Philadelphia. It was widely reprinted in other American newspapers and in some publications in England. The material was originally published under varying titles. The initial instalment appeared first in the New York journal on October 13, 1768 under the heading Journal of transactions in Boston. In the next issue the title was Journal of the times. By the fourth issue the heading became Journal of occurrences. The first title used in the Boston evening post was Journal of transactions in Boston, but later portions carry the heading Journal of the times. The authors have not been identified. cf. Editorial introd.
